TONTINE WINES' ORGANIC MOUNTAIN WINE WON THE CHINA REGION GOLD AWARD

AT

THE 13TH INTERNATIONAL PAR ORGANIC WINE AWARD (2021)

20 June 2021 -- China Tontine Wines Group Limited's ("Tontine Wines" or "the Group", stock code: 0389) Snow Aromatic Organic Mountain Wine won a Gold Award at the Spring Edition of the 13th International PAR Organic Wine Award (2021) with an outstanding score of 93 points, which was the highest score in the Gold Award Category in the China region. This is the third time that Tontine Wines has won the International PAR Organic Wine Awards.

Being one of the "Top 10 brands in China's wine industry", Tontine Wines is highly recognized in the industry and by consumers. Following the Group's Icewine Red winning the Gold Award, with the highest score in the China region, at the 2017 International PAR Organic Wine Award and 2012 – Honor Late Harvest Shuang Hong receiving the Top Gold Award at the 2018 International PAR Organic Wine Award, Tontine Wines won another Gold Award with its Snow Aromatic Organic Mountain Wine at the 2021 International PAR Organic Wine Award; this time it achieved the highest score in the China region. The winning of the third award not only evidences the premium quality of mountain wine, but also lays a solid foundation for the Group's mountain wines to tap into a larger market.

Snow Aromatic Organic Mountain Wine uses the unique premium grapes produced in the Yalu River Valley as raw material. Located along the Yalu River, the production base of Tontine Wines leverages its strategic location, being situated at the same latitude and enjoying similar conditions as the Rhone Valley in France and Napa Valley in the United States (both are world-renowned premium grape growing and grape wine production regions), to produce quality wines. Tontine Wines strives to produce excellent wines. From grape picking to natural wine making; from wine bottling to warehousing and transportation, Tontine Wines has strict supervision procedures and quality control.

The management of Tontine Wines remarks: "Organic wine has been gaining attention and popularity in the international market. Tontine Wines is one of the earliest large-scale wine companies in China that engaged in the production of organic wines. The Group pays high regard to passing on traditional wine making techniques and brand building. We are committed to developing high-quality organic wine products using the unique mountain grapes in China. We will also continue to step up efforts in the development of "Characteristic Production Area + Unique Brand + Distinctive Experience" to develop more products with regional features, so as to continuously expand our product categories."

The Spring Edition of 13th International PAR Organic Wine Award (2021) was held in Frasdorf, Germany. Competing for the awards of this edition were 812 organic wines from 21 countries, an increase of 164 competing wines and 3 participating countries when compared to those of the corresponding period of last year. The wines were evaluated according to their product category, origin, style and marketability, and assessed by a jury comprising PAR certified masters and guest tasters who tasted the wines blindly according to the PAR testing method.
